2. Course Overview

At work you will be often required to present your ideas, solutions or services to colleagues or clients. Delivering client sales pitches, making presentations to senior managers, communicating with customers or business partners or contributing to formal meetings can all be daunting experiences even when you are confident in your material. This course aims to sharpen your spoken communication in managerial and leadership situations. The course focuses on developing a structured and modulated process of communicating effectively in different managerial situations. On completion of this course, you will be able to exhibit an understanding of the basics of spoken communication and learn how communication processes enhance the quality of communication outcomes. You will also understand the nuances of non-verbal communication and become more confident with respect to conducting yourself during one to one interactions, group discussions, interviews and presentations. You will be able to understand the nuances of paralinguistic, improve relevant skills and become more confident in using paralinguistic features while speaking. Finally, you will be able to speak with confidence in oneto-many professional communicative situations including seminars, workshops, symposia, class presentations, industry conferences, product launches, press conferences, team presentations, annual general meetings, departmental presentations, and company profile presentations.

16. Student Responsibility

It is the responsibility of every student to be aware of the requirements for this course, and understand the specific details included in this document.

It is emphasized that this course requires a significant commitment outside of formal class contact. The learning tasks in this course may include classes (lectures or seminars), required reading, the preparation of answers to set questions, exercises and problems, and self-study. In addition, students may be required to complete an assignment, test or examination.

It is advisable that students maintain a separate Note Book for this course which can be used for keeping class notes, library notes, and notes of other readings. It is important to develop the habit of writing notes of classroom discussions and any readings that the students come across.

The table below is an example of the suggested time allocations for this course.

| Classes | 2-3 hours per week for 12 | 22.5 | |

17. Referencing

Assignment, Term Paper etc. should have proper referencing in APA format.

18. Attendance and Participation

Refer SECTION.....of STUDENT HANDBOOK

19. Late Submission

Assessment tasks submitted after the due date, without prior approval/arrangement, will be penalized at 10% of the available marks per day. Requests for extension of time must be made with the faculty member concerned and based on Special Consideration guidelines.

20. LMS-Moodle/Impartus

LMS-Moodle / Impartus is used to host course resources for all courses. Students can download lecture, additional reading materials, and tutorial notes to support class participation.

21. Plagiarism

Plagiarism is looked at as the presentation of the expressed thought or work of another person as though it is one's own without properly acknowledging that person.

Cases of plagiarism will be dealt with according to Plagiarism Policy of the institute. It is advisable that students should read Section of Student Handbook for detailed guidelines. It is also advisable that students must not allow other students to copy their work and take care to safeguard against this happening. In cases of copying, normally all students involved will be penalized equally; an exception will be if the student can demonstrate the work as their own and they took reasonable care to safeguard against copying.

Please note that Plagiarism is a serious offence.

22. Planning for Pedagogical Approach

- Broad learning approach-Problem based learning, work integrated learning (WIL-live projects, internships), group based learning, etc.
- Most appropriate and practical learning activities.
- Resources needed to support student learning (readings, cases, etc).
- Real world applications of learning and an approach that encourages students to work regularly and productively with faculty and other students.
- Contribute to the development of Graduate Attributes.

23. Required Course Materials

- Provide specific information about required readings, including title, author(s), edition number and availability (from where they can be purchased or borrowed) and if possible, indicate how each reading relates to a particular topic in the course.
- Course Pack along with print and online links for the materials listed in the course pack.
- Optional course materials-recommended readings, textbooks, etc.

24. Institute's Policy Statements

- Academic Integrity- Consequences of cheating, plagiarism and other academic offences.
- Attendance requirement.
- Any other additional policies governing issues which affect students (mentioned in the students' handbook).
